MRS. J. M. CHENEY MEETS A TERRIBLE DEATH

Gloom Cast Over Entire Community by Shocking End of Prominent and Highly Respected Pioneer Woman's Life

Sonoma Valley residents were horrified, Tuesday afternoon, as the appalling fact of the fatal burning of Mrs. James M Cheney became known, and the city has been shrouded with a pall of sadness since the occurrence of the frightful catastrophe.

From the meager information obtained from the dying lips of Mrs. Cheney, the fatality resulted from the removing of a pan of coals from the sitting-room stove to that in the kitchen. The clothing of Mrs. Cheney became ignited and enveloped in flames she ran into the street, screaming for help. Before effectual aid was rendered, however, the unfortunate woman was in the death agony. Her pitifully charred body was carried into her home, and Drs. W. B. Hays and A. M. Thomson summoned to attend her.

Medical skill was unavailing, save only in the alleviation of her intense suffering. Mrs. Cheney lingered but a few hours, drifting into the Valley of Shadows shortly after ten o'clock.

The hand of the Grim Reaper has, indeed, been laid heavily upon the family of the departed, leaving a load of sorrow so crushing that it seems impenetrable by consolation. To close the eyes of a loved one is ever heart-breaking, but the yielding of life in so terribly tragic a manner is immeasurably heart-rending.

Mrs. Tammy A. Cheney was a native of Pennsylvania, and aged sixty-four years. In early childhood her parents came to California and up to the time of her death, for fifty-seven years, she had been a resident of this State, the greater part of that time having been spent in this city.

Here, in historic Old Sonoma, the deceased was wedded to the devoted husband who survives her, and here, too, was reared to womanhood and manhood the four children--two sons and two daughters—of the much-respected couple, viz.: Charles and Clarence Cheney, Mrs. John Revie and Mrs. C. E. Johnson. The aged mother of Mrs. Cheney—Mrs Arvilla McHarvey—is left to mourn the passing of the most tenderly devoted of daughters. Nine grandchildren also survive the deceased.

The funeral was held from the family residence yesterday, (Friday) afternoon, Rev. E. F. Brown, of the Methodist Church, conducting the obsequies with tender sympathy expressed for the desolate and broken family circle.

At the cemetery, the final services were conducted by Verdant Degree Lodge of Rebekahs, of which fraternity deceased had been a valued member. During her life Mrs. Cheney had also been an active worker in religious circles.

And when her form had been consigned to its last resting-place, the lowly mound was covered o'er with a pall of beautiful flowers, and the beloved dead was left in unbroken rest in peaceful Mountain Cemetery.

The memory of this much-loved pioneer will live for always in the hearts of a wide circle of friends, who had treasured for her throughout the years a full measure of esteem and affection. The rare beauty and perfection of her character lives, not alone in the hearts of her children, but of all who ever came within her refining, womanly influence. True refinement had been her life's heritage.

Mrs. Cheney leaves to her children a legacy that age cannot wither nor time destroy—a character flawless in its purity, noble in its every attribute, perfect in its conception, and a name untarnished.

BENEFIT FOR LITTLE CHILDREN

Glen Ellen Parlor of Native Sons To Give Masquerade Ball, for Homeless Little Ones Requiring Shelter.

Glen Ellen is ever to the fore in extendiag a generously helpful hand to the needy, and benefit balls and entertainments are the rule rather than the exception in our enterprising northern neighbor.

Now in course of arrangement is a Grand Masquerade Ball, to be given by Glen Ellen Parlor of Native Sons, at Chauvet Hall, Saturday night, January 2nd, for the benefit of the homeless children of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Prizes will be awarded to the best sustained and most orignal characters, lady and gentleman, hence it is now in order for the clever and original Sonoma character impersonators "to get busy" and capture a prize—or two.

Messrs. J. Pancrazi, J. M. Sobbe, and A. Kunda, who are numbered among the "live wires" of Glen Ellen Parlor of Native Sons, and have yet to fail in making a success of any event under their supervision, comprise the committee of arrangements.

Good music has been engaged for the occasion, and the price of admission has been placed at the popular sum of fifty cents per couple.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The holiday vacation will be enjoyed by Miss Ellen Trueblood in Los Gatos, Miss Margaret More goes to Los Alamos, Miss Helen Rowell to Fresno, and Miss Emma Johnson to San Francisco, and all are anticipating and their pupils hope will return with pleasant memories.

Last Saturday evening the Boys' Basket-Ball Team journeyed to Petaluma and played a game with the High School of that town. Petaluma won by the score of 26 to 30, but not until the last minute was the game decided. The Sonoma line-up was as follows: Thomson and Dresel forwards, Duhring center, Prestwood and Prestwood guards.

Friday night of last week, the Boys' Basket-Ball Team met the Apollos Club Team at Union Hall, and after a hard and fast game were defeated 39 to 26. On the same evening, the First and Second teams of the Girls of the High School played a game and at the end the score favored the First Team, 15 to 5.

School will close on Friday for two weeks during the Christmas holidays. This short intermission from the routine of school life will be greatly welcomed by both faculty and pupils alike. A jolly send-off will be given in the form of a dance. Plans are on foot to make this one of the jolliest events of the school year. The Alumni and all former pupils are cordially invited.

WHAT OUR NEAR-BY NEIGHBORS ARE DOING

VINEBURG NOTES

George W. Reed, Sonoma City's veteran station agent, was a visitor at Batto's Spur, Sunday last.

M. Byers, the well-known salesman of the Frank B Peterson Co., was in Vineburg on Wednesday.

W. R. Hansen will assume the business management of Adolph Rube's merchandise store at this place the first of the year.

Large quantities of seed are being disposed of at the Batto warehouses and from the looks of the amount, the acreage sown in this vicinity will exceed that of last year.

Harry Brandt, port engineer of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, stationed at San Francisco, spent the week-end the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brandt.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Bundschu, of San Francisco— newly-weds—were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bundschu, at Rhine Farm, several days last week.

Fred Lowell was up from San Francisco, Saturday last, greeting his many friends in Vineburg, and returning to the metropolis the same afternoon.

Twenty incubators, Petaluma make, were delivered to the G. & C. Poultry Yards of Gegerich and Callahan, on the Hyde Tract, from Batto's warehouses, on Wednesday last.

James L. Modini and Fred Hansen, both of whom are numbered among Sonoma's first "crack wing shots," accompanied by A. Marcucci, invaded the tules, Thursday of last week. and secured the limit of—well, that's the way the story goes—ducks.

Arthur Carmer, who has been in the employ of our local merchant, Adolph Rubke, for several months, has given up his place here and accepted a position in Sonoma. Arthur has made many warm friends in this vicinity, all of whom wish him success.

A carload of choice dried fruit was shipped from Batto's Spur, on Saturday last, consigned to Guggenheim Company, San Francisco. The car contained twenty tons. Quite a number of carloads remain in the Batto warehouses awaiting shipment later on.

It is quite surprising the boom that the poultry industry has taken lately in this part of Sonoma Valley. Most of our poultry men have been building up-to-date incubator and brooding houses, and are stocking their yards with the finest breeds of fowl. W. J. Hiser, one of our most progressive and successful of poultry men, received twelve cockerels from New York last week They are from South Carolina White Leghorn hens, with an egg record of from 225 to 261 eggs a year. Mr. Hiser is an expert in poultry raising, and is sure to keep up the reputation of the valley for the production of fine poultry.

A. W. Lehrke and George Fredericks have purchased the holdings of the Ramsay Land and Live Stock Company, Inc., in the northern part of Mendocino County. The ranch contains ten thousand acres of choice land and is on the new line of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. About one thousand head of stock are on the ranch at present. The price will run up into the sixth figure. Mr. Lehrke will assume sole management of the ranch the first of the year. The place is conceded to be ons of the finest stock ranges in Northern California, and was formerly owned by Messrs. Chittenden and Fee. During the absence of Mr. Lehrke, Howard Brown will be the business manager of Mr. Lehrke's interests in Sonoma County.

EASY JIM.

SCHELLVILLE NEWS

A few friends dropped in and spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bennett, of the Bennett poultry yards.

Mrs. A. Miller had a pleasant visit from her son Joe, of Napa, on Sunday last.

Mrs. L. Rosser and a party of friends motored to Santa Rosa, on Saturday last.

Wm. Jacobson, of Glen Park, spent the fore part of the week at his country home here.

Tony Jason, of Petaluma, made a business trip to this vicinity, Saturday. The health of his little daughter is somewhat improved.

Mrs. C. Bierworth and Miss Helen Johnson, of San Francisco, spent Sunday with Mrs. E. P. Steddom. On Monday, Mrs Steddom and guests enjoyed an auto ride to the City of Roses.

Everett Schumacher and sister, Arzola, who had been guests of their grandmother, Mrs. G. Monroe, for a week, returned home Tuesday.

Wm. Helberg and daughter, Elizabeth, visited at tho home of Mrs. A. Marti, of Petaluma, on Wednesday.

O. Gericke and family pleasantly entertained a number of Schellville friends at their picturesque country home last Sunday.

Otto Brandt, our cattle man, returned, Tuesday, after the visit of a week in the bay cities.

Mrs. A. Converse, who had been very ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. Schumacher, left Saturday for the St. Helena Sanitarium to receive medical treatment. Her many friends hope it will not be for long.

Genial Mont Akers, our well-known postmaster, butchered his two pigs, Tom and Jerry, and they tipped the scales at four hundred and fifty pounds each. What is Mont going to do with nine hundred pounds of meat? Happy Jack makes a motion that he issue invitations for a good spread. Sure, we will all be there.

HAPPY JACK.

NEWS NOTES BRIEFLY TOLD

Movements of Sonoma Valley Residents and Their Friends —Other Local Notes of General Interest.

S. B. Lewis was a well-known business man in the City of Roses, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Monahan were Sunday visitors here from the metropolis.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Duhring returned from a brief metropolitan visit, Monday evening.

The Misses Alma and Giglia Dal Poggetto returned, on Wednesday evening, from a couple of days' shopping in San Francisco.

Mrs. Fred Hansen returned to her home in this city, Monday evening, from an enjoyable visit with friends in San Francisco.

Mrs. J. N. Burke and daughter, Miss Margaret, were cordially greeted by their many friends during their few hours' visit in town, Sunday.

Mrs. P. B. Burgess was here from San Francisco, Sunday, looking after her property interests. Mrs. Burgess is well and favorably known here, and many friends regret the briefness of the visit.

Mrs. Pauline McMullin spent Tuesday in San Francisco, purchasing additional holiday goods—the most practical and appreciated of gifts, by the way—for the H. F. Bates establishment. Shoppers should remember, too, that with every fifty-cent purchase a free chance is given on the Indian motorcycle.

Rev. and Mrs. T. M. Price are entertaining their nephew, C. W. Price, of Philadelphia, who will be their guest for an indefinite length of time. Mr. Price is so pleased with California that he is thinking seriously of remaining in the State. The young man was recently graduated from the University of Pennsylvania.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has placed at the disposal of Congressman William Kent, from this District, fifteen copies of its 28th Annual report, which he will be glad to forward on request, as long as his supply lasts. This report is particularly interesting to those connected with railroad work and to lawyers handling questions pertaining to common carriers.

Mrs. Caroline Nichelini has been absent from Sonoma on a visit to her son, Atone Nichelini, of Chiles Valley. A visit was also paid to her daughter, Mrs. Carolina Leoni, of Calistoga, and to her neices, Mesdames Fred Colley and Jose Snobui, of Napa. Mrs. Nichelini reports most enjoyable sojourns with her relatives, who entertained her on several automobile trips through the beautiful Napa valley.

Mrs. Henry J. Wicker spent Monday shopping in the Bay City, and to her surprise and pleasure found that G. Dorn, the San Francisco importer of china, had just received a large shipment, which had been ordered before the war. Mrs. Wicker is thus enabled to fill the numerous orders which have poured in upon her for hand-painted china. The many beautiful pieces on display at Union Hall Studio have been "selling like hot cakes."

QUICKLY DISMISSED EVIDENCE COMPLETE

Any person that is imbued with the idea that they cannot secure appropriate and useful Christmas presents in Sonoma, should take a walk through Clewe's store and have that idea dismissed.

The evidence in the form of beautiful and substantial wares completely refutes that idea. The prices, too, are reasonable.

FINE APPLE DISPLAY

From a recent issue of the San Francisco Commercial News, we take the following comment: "If anyone wishes to see a fine apple show it is only necessary to visit Von Husen's & Co.'s, where there are hundreds of boxes of California, Washington and Oregon fancy varieties. It is an eye-opener as to the production on this Coast." Sonoma Valley growers will read the above with much interest, as John Von Husen, of the firm of Von Husen & Co., is a heavy buyer in this district, and doubtless some of the fine product of this valley contributes to the display.

SANTA CLAUS COMING TONIGHT

Union Hall in Gala Trimmings for Big Holiday Fete To Be Given by Sonoma Moose Social Organization.

Union Hall is fragrant with evergreen and gay with the shimmer and glitter of gold and silver tinsel, and bright-hued baubles which have made resplendent the mammoth trees, whose handsome branches are weighted down with a load of delights for troops of glad-hearted children.

This Christmas Entertainment to be given tonight (Saturday) under the auspices of the Moose Social Club, promises to be the jolliest and best attended affair given in many months, and for weeks past the little ones have anticipated the event with thrills of happiness. And why not? Is there an occasion throughout the year that is as pure and true a joy-giver as the Christmas-tide? Is there a human heart too void of sentiment to respond to the spirit of the world's favorite holiday? Surely not.

It was a happy thought—this giving of a Christmas fete by the Sonoma Moose Social Club, and, as we informed our readers last week, the event has been undertaken not as a money-making proposition, as has been made definitely clear, but with the sole object of giving to big and little folk a few hours of genuine enjoyment.

The gentlemen who have the affair in hand are: Messrs. Paul Robin, Wm. Russell, Thos. Lewis, E. Coates, F. Price, E. Castagnasso and C. Weisshaar, and they have neglected no detail of arrangement to give Santa Claus a royal welcome.

An excellent literary and musical program is to be presented, which is to be followed by dancing, with music by the Pauli-Gottenberg Orchestra.

And all of this, mark you, for the nominal sum of twenty-five cents. There will be no admission charged children who are accompanied by their parents.

Messrs. Ralph Busby and E. Coates motored to San Francisco, Sunday morning, the latter gentleman returning the same evening by train, and Mr. Busby the following morning.

VOUCHES FOR GEM

"Don't be afraid! Give it to them, and let them pass it around. The Court will see that you get it back," said Judge Zook to A. W. Lehrke, the Vineburg capitalist, when the latter took off a huge diamond ring to allow the twelve jurymen in the box to see it. Lehrke had started from the witness stand to exhibit the ring on his finger. Then the Court assured him he would see that it was returned safely. Lehrke's ring is valued at a thousand or two of dollars. At the time of a mixup involved in the trial Tuesday, Lehrke had testified he had endeavored to pull off the ring.—Press Democrat.

Reception Tendered Mr. and Mrs. John Walton at the Toscano Hotel

Mr. and Mrs. John Walton (nee Miss Amelia Ciucci) returned from their bridal trip, Monday evening, and were accorded royal welcome by their host of friends.

A reception was tendered the couple on the night of their return at the Toscano Hotel, the home of the bride's parents, and a few hours happily spent in music and song. A. Clerici acted as master of ceremonies, assisting Mr. and Mrs. Walton, and Mr. and Mrs. Ciucci in receiving and entertaining the company.

Alfred Jansen's fine voice was heard in pleasing vocal numbers, clever Larry Larsen gave an excellent recitation, and Fred Selig contributed entertaining songs.

A sumptuous feast was served, at which the newly-wedded twain were toasted, after which the merry gathering broke up, with many good wishes extended to Mr. and Mrs. Walton for a happy wedded life.

THE BEST CHRISTMAS GIFT

How many parents will read this and agree with us that the best Christmas Gift that they can make for a son or a daughter, is a scholarship in the Santa Rosa Business College? A business education will be appreciated more than trinkets, trifles, or even valuable presents. It is something that cannot be stolen, destroyed, or taken away. It serves a lifetime and is the foundation of prosperity and success.

The coming year we shall need at least one hundred more graduates to fill positions offered. We are now having calls, impossible for us to fill for want of qualified graduates.

Will you be one of the hundred? Write for circulars. The next term opens Monday, January 4, 1915.

APPOLLOS TEAM VS. HIGH SCHOOL

(BY OUR SPORTING EDITOR)

After a stubbornly contested game of basket-ball between the Apollos Club of Sonoma and the Sonoma Valley Union High School, which was played at Union Hall last Friday evening, the former mentioned team was victorious.

Play started at 8:30 P. M. and at the end of the first half the score was 16 to 14 in favor of the High School. After a few moments rest, play was resumed and the boys of the Apollos Club went into the game determined to overcome the handicap under which they were playing and live up to the reputation of Apollos, who in the Bible is known as mighty and victorious. The club boys overcame the lead that the High School had and at the end of the game the score was 39 to 26. Harold Stockwell, Russ Prestwood and Henry Waltz were easily the stars of the game while John Duhring and Gustav Dresel were also in the limelight.

The line up was as follows:

Apollos Club		S. V. U. H.
Cameron	Guard	Rod Prestwood
Rus. Prstwd	Guard	Thompson
Danielson	Guard
Bonner	Center	Duhring
Stockwell	Forward	Dresel
Waltz	Forward	Ranker

The Apollos Club was originated by Rev. Francis Brown of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Sonoma, the purpose of the club is to develop the boys' minds in all branches of manhood and to make the church more pleasant to those who in the past, have been driven unwillingly to attend services of the various churches of this community. One must be an attendant of any of the churches or Sunday Schools of Sonoma, to become a member of the Apollos Club.

On account of Christmas, the regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary, P. P. I. E., will be held in the City Hall, this afternoon, at three o'clock. The new bulletins will be read, and matters of general interest discussed. A cordial invitation to attend is extended the public.

HELP WAR SUFFERERS BUT KEEP UP CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

SAN FRANCISCO, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,

In answer to our cable to H. C. Hoover, advising that the Camino had sailed, the following cable has been received from Mr. Hoover:

LONDON, DEC. 8, 1914.
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA:

I wish to express the gratitude of the American Commission to yourselves and the people of California for the magnificent gift of mercy on board the steamer Camino. Your spontaneous and prompt action came also as a personal tribute to the Californians, Capt. Lucey, Edgar Rickard and myself on this Commission. Our thanks for your support to our task is but a small reflection of the deep gratitude of the people of Belgium. On last Wednesday at Brussels, I attended a meeting of the leading men of Belgium who comprise our colleagues in our Belgian work, and presented to them a list of cargoes en route from America, among the earliest being my State of California. In an effort to express their gratitude the chairman, Ernst Solvay, "The Grand Old Man of Belgium, entirely broke down. But beyond all this, lies the daily thanksgiving from the long lines of patient men, women and children who stand each morning and night for their daily bread at the relief stations in Belgium.

HERBERT HOOVER.

Knowing your interest this matter, the above is sent to you for your information.

Very truly yours,
SAN FRANCISCO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
C. F. MICHAELS,
President.

The above letter, received last week by the Sonoma Valley Chamber of Commerce, is a joy-laden message to that body of gentlemen, as well as to the many other charitable men and women of Sonoma Valley who solicited and contributed donations to help make up the cargo of Christmas cheer and comfort carried by The Camino across the seas to the stricken war sufferers.

California can now prepare with lighter heart for her own Christmas, supremely happy in the realization that she has shared with lavish hand with the desolated war sufferers in Europe.

A strange Christmas, says Leslie's Weekly, will it be among the belligerent nations. In thousands of homes, stricken by the loss of dear ones or with loved ones still on the danger line, Christmas festivities will seem altogether out of place.

Among those made destitute by the war, there will be little Christmas cheer except as others carry it to them.

We coincide with Leslie's in its further comment as follows:

While Christmas will have an unusual element of sadness this year, even a world-wide catastrophe should not be allowed to overcome the season's joy. Our sympathy for those who suffer should not rob us altogether of the good cheer that Christmas brings with it, or of the gift-making which characterizes the season. No child should look back upon a Christmas without a tree, toys and good things.

The suggestion that no Christmas pressnts be bought this year, and that the money thus saved be sent to the relief of Europe's war victims, will not make a popular appeal. Were no Christmas purchases made this year, it would by no means follow that all, or a large part, of the money so saved would be sent to the sufferers in Europe. The laws of human nature are such that if all Christmas givings were checked it would tend to stop also the charity which has for weeks been flowing to Europe.

The majority of people would reason that, if they couldn't buy presents for their children or friends, they could not afford to contribute to relief funds. Do people realize, too, what a business disturbance would result if Christmas buying were curtailed on a large scale?

The Christmas trade represents often the yearly profits. If that trade were suddenly and seriously curtailed, it would mean disaster for hundreds of stores and for many thousands of employees.

But this Christmas does give an opportunity for certain much-desired reforms. Recent years have witnessed a growing tendency to senseless giving. Many presents are made with no thought other than paying a debt or establishing a credit.

There is no better time than now to cut out such commercialism, and to make all giving reflect the true Christmas spirit. When we do this we will have all the customary joy of the season in the home and in friendship's circle. We will be in the mood also to remember the suffering thousands across the seas, and in our own land the needy ones who will be in far greater numbers this year than usual.

Can Still Grow Pears—

Reports from the principal pear sections of the state seem to indicate that the pear blight, which has been less virulent in the past few years than it was some years since, that it was hoped it would not again become a threatening danger, has appeared in stronger force during the past season than for five or six years previous, although not yet reaching the destructive force of its strongly epidemic period.

It is usually the case that when a disease or tree pest is first introduced, as soon as it gets firmly established, it spreads with great rapidity and for a few years seems to threaten the total destruction of the trees or plants attacked, only later on to be checked by some cause and, after that, to appear with varying virulence in succeeding seasons.

We believe this has been our experienca with most of our introduced pests and diseases, striking instances being the San Jose scale and the cottony cushion scale. Pear blight is different from the greater part of our serious pests, being neither insect nor fungous, both of which we are able to control to a very great extent with the spray pump, but this disease being bacterial, working within the bark of the attacked tree and being wholly protected from external remedies, cannot be reached by ordinary remedies Yet by constant watching and skillful treatment it can be largely controlled. The most fortunate circumstance connected with its attack, is that it is not always at its worst. There are seasons when its destructive powers seem to lessen and this gives the pear grower an opportunity to recover himself and recompenses him for his work. It is possible that we shall have the pear blight with us always, but it is not probable that it will ever again be so bad or destructive as it was ten years ago, when it swept over the pear-growing sections of the state

Judging, then, from the history of the past few years, it is a perfectly safe proposition to plant out pear orchards, with the understanding that care must be taken with them, and with the knowledge that this extra care will be well repaid in the greater profits which pears are paying

There is money in pears and there are large areas in this state suitable to their production in which the blight has never appeared. Such sections offer big inducements to growers, and in all our pear sections there need be no lack of confidence in the future of the pear as a big money paying fruit crop. There are two things which the new planter will have to encourage him: the blight will never again, in all probability, become the severe epidemic that it was, and we have learned largely how to correct it and keep it in check.—Farm and Home Section Santa Rosa Republican.

Dairy Stock Should Be Dehorned

Except in the case of cattle that are to be used for exhibition purposes, all dairy animals should be dehorned In the wild state cattle needed horns for protection, but in the present state of domestication horns serve no useful purpose and are a source of considerable annoyance.

On the adult animal the horns may be removed by the use of the saw or clipper In either case the cut should be close enough to the head to leave a ring of hair on the part that is removed, otherwise there is liable to be a stubby growth of horn appear in the course of a year or so.

The best and least cruel method of removing horns is by means of an application of caustic potash to the horn buttons while the calf is one to four days old. The hair is carefully clipped from the buttons and the moistened end of a stick of potash is then rubbed on the spot until the skin bleeds slightly. Care should be taken to prevent the liquid caustic from running off the button, but if only a small amount is rubbed on, there will be no danger from this source If the caustic has been properly applied, there will be a dent in the skull where the button appeared and no horns will develop.

Profitable Venture

Many farmers residing near the towns make good money with small cream cheeses. Where a person has but one or two cows, so that it does not pay him to bother about sending his cream to the creamery, the cream cheese opens a profitable venture They are usually put up in five and ten cent sizes and find a ready sale.

Take two quarts of new fresh milk and add twenty drops of rennet extract. Then stir into this a quart of cream. After it is thoroughly mixed, heat so as to raise the temperature of the mixture from seventy-six to eighty degrees in warm weather and from eighty-six to eighty-eight in very cold. Whatever heat the mixture is kept it should be held for thirty-six hours. After this, strain through a double thickness of muslin However, this should be done with care, so that the fats will not be liberated and run off with the whey.

Let the residue stand for twelve hours, or less if it becomes mealy. Look at it occasionally, and as soon as it commences to crumble, work into round cakes about two inches thick and the same distance in width.

Information about Turkeys—

Compiled by the Editor of the Petaluma Poultry Journal.

Inbreeding invites failure.

Turkeys thrive best on a grass range.

In dressing, turkeys shrink about a third.

The Bronze is the giant of the turkey family.

The parent stock must be strong and vigorous.

Hens are in profit until five years of age.

Gobblers should be changed each year.

Boston is said to be the greatest market for dressed turkeys.

Hens must not be allowed to become too fat before the breeding season.

When the gobbler is in a too fat condition infertile eggs is the general result.

The wild breeds are known as Mexican, Honduras and North American.

Turkeys are of a roaming disposition and cannot be kept in a confined place.

It is estimated that a breeding flock of six should produce from seventy-five to one hundred young.

Two-year-old toms to four-year-old hens make reliable matings.

Success depends upon wholesome food, freedom from lice and dry, healthy quarters.

The domesticated breeds are the American Mammoth Bronze, White Holland, Narragansetts, Black, Buff and State.

Turkeys are reliable for both incubation and brooding.

Grass and insects are natural food for turkeys.

An English writer declares that the eggs from young breeding stock produce the greatest number of gobblers.

Corn should be fed only during cold weather or when nearly ready to fatten for market.

It is a noted fact that if the gobbler is present during the time of laying the first clutch of eggs, the second clutch will be fertile without his presence.

Turkeys for market must be dry-picked.

In catching turkeys avoid rough handling.

A trio of turkeys should produce forty or more young during a season.

While mature turkeys are the most hardy fowls, young turkey chicks are the most tender, needing protection and care.

Partly decayed meat is little better than a dose of arsenic for the hens. Limberneck is now conceded to be caused by that kind of poisoning

Proper Feeding of Fowl—

Mrs. S. Swaysgood, of Pomona Cal., in an interesting article to the Petaluma Weekly Poultry Journal, gives some valuable information, from which we take the following excerpts:

"To those who are anywhere in touch with the Egyptian corn crop it will pay to buy in quantity all that their bank account will stand, for without doubt all grain products will go higher yet. Egyptian and kaffir corn fill the bill for a winter feed for almost all the small breeds, and for the large breeds it can be fed once a day if the fowls are made to exercise for it.

"I am going to see that what feed I buy is not fed to unproductive stock, for that is where the biggest loss and leak comes in. Every drone should be culled out and sold for table use, and nothing kept as layers but those that will lay.

"Cull out the drones, buy your feed ahead if possible, then feed what stock you have to lay, and keep them on the job.

"Poultry are like people—they need variety—and bare yards are not any inducement to hens to lay. If you can sew some green feed and encourage them to spend their time rustling it, it pays one hundred per cent better than letting hens stand huddled in corners of the yards waiting for the feeder to appear with a bucket.

"Mustard in the ground is lots better than mustard from the factory. Both may be good, but I know, and the hens know, which is the most natural for them to eat The southern curled mustard seed is about one dollar a pound, but a pound goes a long way and furnishes a lot of good green feed that is one of the greatest aids to digestion, and that is what makes the eggs come."
